Guidelines for Authors

International Journal of Humanities and Social Sciences is a peer-reviewed, open access international journal and appears six issues a year in print and online. The journal welcomes original contributions of fundamental research in humanities and social sciences, of interdisciplinary nature. In selecting manuscripts for publication, the editors place emphasis on the quality and originality of the work as well as the breadth of interest to diverse topics and subjects. Articles for the journal must be of high quality, must be research-based and must fall within the scope of the journal. Authors submitting articles to us must follow the guidelines below.

1. Articles submitted to us must be the original work of the author(s) listed, and not previously published in part or full.
2. Articles may be sent to us at any time in all aspects of humanities and social sciences. But they should be interdisciplinary in nature and will be published six issues a year.
3. We accept the articles in electronic format only and from a single designated corresponding author who will be responsible for all subsequent communication with the editors. All submissions should be a single Microsoft Word file, with figures (graphics) and tables embedded within them.
4. An article should not exceed 7000 words or not more than 10 pages of single line space A4 size paper and Times New Roman 12 point font size. The text or paragraphs should be left justified only.
5. Articles should be consistent in style throughout, especially if different authors have contributed sections. All submissions are expected to contain scholarly citations, including layout formats of APA style. The following components should be included in all articles that are intended to help you achieve a clear, consistent style that is easy to read.
 - Title
 - Author's information (name, position, affiliation, address, email address)
 - Abstract (not more than 150 words)
 - Keywords (not more than five keywords or key phrases)
 - Main Headings (sub-headings are optional; include introduction, body with several headings, and conclusion; recommendation is optional)
 - Acknowledgements (Optional)
 - References
6. All submissions will be assessed by one or more editors to determine whether they fall within the nature of our journal and meet our requirements. Articles that do not fulfill these criteria are likely to be rejected without review.
7. Submissions that deviate from the above guidelines will be returned to the corresponding authors for correction. Because the guidelines are updated as appropriate, authors should check them again before they submit their articles.
8. The respective authors should take all ethical responsibility for submitted and published articles; if submitted articles are found plagiarized they will directly be rejected without review. The authors should also agree on the terms and conditions of the copyright authorization of the articles to the journal while submitting the final version of the articles.
9. Articles can be sent to editors@crossingtheborder.com.np as an email attachment.

Peer Review Process

In general, our journal operates a double blind review system. The reviewers will not be aware of the names and affiliations of the authors. However, the reviewer's reports will be provided to the authors for revision of the submitted manuscripts.

The aim of the peer review process is to determine the originality, validity, and relevance of the manuscripts. Those manuscripts which are accepted for publication in our journal will pass through five stages: initial screening, review reports, editorial assessment, authorial revision, and editorial decision.

Stage 1: Initial Screening

All submissions will be screened by the editors for relevance. Then, all manuscripts will pass through software to check for plagiarism. Successful manuscripts will be accepted for review.

Stage 2: Review Reports

The accepted manuscripts will be reviewed by the double blind reviewers who will be asked to evaluate whether the manuscript is publishable or not.

Stage 3: Editorial Assessment

On the basis of the reviewers' reports, the editors will determine whether the manuscripts should be sent to the authors for revision or not.

Stage 4: Authorial Revision

The authors will be provided with the reviewers' reports, including the editors' instructions for revision of the processed manuscripts.

Stage 5: Editorial Decision

The editors will reach a decision based on the reports sent by the reviewers and the authors' revised submissions. The editors will consult with the editorial board and write a letter of acceptance to the successful authors for publication.
